

MRS. SANDERS DIES SUDDENLY

TAKEN ILL IN BUTTE SOME TIME AGO, BUT HER RECOVERY WAS EXPECTED.

WAS WELL KNOWN PIONEER

An Operation in Butte Hospital Was Thought to Be Successful, as She Gained Strength Until Yesterday—Sudden Relapse Came and She Died at Noon.

News of the death at Butte of Mrs. Harriet Peck Sanders, widow of the late Col. Wilbur F. Sanders, was received in Helena yesterday afternoon shortly after 12 o'clock. Encouraging reports of the condition of Mrs. Sanders had been coming to Helena from Butte during the past week, and the news of her death came as an unexpected shock to her many friends in Helena, who expected to see her return home in the near future, enjoying her former good health.

Thought She Would Recover. Last week Mrs. Sanders was operated upon in a Butte hospital for gall stones. For two days following the operation she was reported to be in a serious condition. On the third day, however, she showed decided signs of improvement, which continued until her attending physician and friends thought she would recover. At 11 o'clock yesterday morning, however, she suffered a violent sinking spell and in less than 15 minutes she was again in a dangerous state. Despite the fact that the physicians summoned worked untiringly over her, she continued to grow worse until at noon she breathed her last.

A telegram summoning her son, J. I. Sanders, to Butte was received in this city shortly after 12 o'clock yesterday afternoon and he immediately departed for that city.

An Early Pioneer. Mrs. Sanders was the daughter of Joseph and Nancy Fenn, and was born at Tallmadge, Summit county, Ohio, April 25, 1834, and was united in marriage to the late Col. W. F. Sanders, Oct. 27, 1853, and of the union five children were born, three of whom, James U. Sanders, Wilbur D. Sanders and Louise P. Sanders, the latter two of Butte, and the former of Helena, still survive.

The departed made the memorable trip overland to the Treasure state with her husband and her two sons, W. F. and James U. Sanders, arriving in Banack, Sept. 17, 1863. During her late husband's illustrious career she was constantly at his side, lending him her encouragement and sharing his joys and sorrows, his trials and tribulations, with all the devotion and courage of a devoted wife, and it is said that much of his notable success was due to the never-flagging loyalty, love and inspiration he got from the woman who bore his name.

Mrs. Sanders was one of the most dearly beloved pioneer women of the state and her death will be generally mourned.

The body will arrive in Helena this morning at 11 o'clock and the funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Sanders home on Ewing street and Seventh avenue.

NORRIS SATISFIED WITH STATE SCHOOL

RETURNS FROM VISIT OF INSPECTION TO REFORM INSTITUTION AT MILES CITY.

Governor Norris, who, with Secretary of State A. N. Yoder and Attorney General A. J. Galen, recently made a visit to the State Reform school at Miles City, returned to Helena yesterday. He was greatly pleased with the result of the inspection. He said:

"It is particularly gratifying to the board," said he, "to learn that the institution is keeping well within its appropriations. The Reform school was found in splendid condition in every respect. The farm is being properly tilled and with splendid results. Such apples, watermelons, cantelopes, corn and the like being raised there will be hard to eclipse anywhere. You may say for the board that next year there will be an exhibit of these at the State Fair, too. And, I predict, it will get a mighty high marking of its inherent and patent worth."

"The supplies and machinery for the industrial department have been received and are rapidly being installed. The purpose is to give the youth there an industrial education, and when our plans are completed, Montana will have one of the best industrial training institutions to be found in the northwest. The local executive board and the president are entitled to praise for their efforts in making the plans of the institution in such marked degree." It is being conducted in first class shape and its affairs are most satisfactory. The officers also visited the Agricultural college at Bozeman.

OLD PIONEER LAID TO REST

SIMPLE BUT IMPRESSIVE SERVICES HELD OVER REMAINS OF MICHAEL REINIG.

BUSINESS HOUSES CLOSE

Funeral Held Under the Auspices of Montana Pioneer Society and the Masonic Lodges of the City—His Employees Attend Services in a Body—Story of Life.

Simple but impressive were the funeral services of Michael Reinig, held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the family residence on South Rodney street. Hundreds of old-time residents, not only of Helena but of many cities of the state, gathered to pay a last tribute of love and respect to the memory of one of Montana's most notable pioneers and one of Helena's first and most enterprising residents and business men. The services were conducted by the Rev. James F. McNamee, pastor of the First Baptist church, and at their conclusion one of the longest funeral processions ever witnessed in Helena wended its sorrowful way to the old Benton avenue cemetery, where the departed was laid to rest. At the cemetery appropriate services were conducted by Moses Morris on behalf of the Masonic lodges of Helena.

Business Houses Close.

The funeral was held under the auspices of the Society of Montana Pioneers and the various Masonic lodges of the city, of which Mr. Reinig was a member. Members of these orders, of the Commercial club and the employees of Mr. Reinig, attended the funeral in a body. A splendid tribute was paid to his memory when every business house in Helena closed its doors while the services over the remains of the departed pioneer were being conducted.

The following old-time friends of the decedent acted as pallbearers: Harry G. Pickett, H. M. Parchen, F. P. Sterling, Moses Morris, W. G. Rumsey and A. M. Holter.

Mr. Reinig was a native of Diefeld, Bavaria, and 74 years old. His parents were persons of consequence and members of families long resident in that part of the world, his father having been a prominent Rhine wine merchant and manufacturer. Of the 14 children only three survive the well-known Helena resident—residents of Helena, Iowa and Washington, respectively.

Listening to the call of the new world, Mr. Reinig at the age of 16 set sail for America, arriving in New York after a perilous trip of 55 days. He found employment in Gotham, Newark and Philadelphia for nearly a year, when he again responded to the migratory demands of his nature, lured by tales of adventure and excitement. He first located at Lawrenceburg, Ind., where for five years he found employment in a grocery store.

In the latter part of 1855 he returned to New York, where, with his sister and her husband, Frank Dekum, of St. Louis, he set sail for San Francisco by the Isthmus route.

Had Hard Trip.

From San Francisco Mr. Reinig went to Portland and soon afterward joined the Mullan expedition, which surveyed a wagon road from Walla Walla to Fort Benton, Mont., by way of the Coeur d'Alenes. On this trip he became ill and was obliged to abandon the expedition at Hellgate, near what is now Missoula, and returned to Portland.

Mr. Reinig soon afterward, recovering his health, established himself in The Dalles, Ore., but in 1855 the news of gold strikes at Granite City and Bear gulch, Mont., thrilled his heart, and he started again for the then territory, utilizing a saddle animal and two pack horses. But actual mining was not to his taste and he did not linger long there. With his horses he started by way of Deer Lodge for Helena, and reached this city on May 1, 1856. Soon after he left the mining camps his pack horse gave out and he had to abandon it. With his goods packed on his saddle horse he finished the journey afoot.

The story of Mr. Reinig's life while in Helena is well known to every one. He was the proprietor of the first Helena bakery and since then he has been almost exclusively engaged in the grocery business. His achievements in Helena will undoubtedly make an interesting chapter in the history of the Capital city.

If you have a nervous child, take him to Dr. Dodd, Helena Hotel, next week.

J. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway, that the city should be fittingly decorated in honor of its noted guests. Particular mention is made of the importance of decorations for the business district and all residences along the line of march for the presidential party, with United States flags and bunting.

During the carnival last summer the city assumed a gay appearance than was ever seen before, and outside visitors remarked upon it in complimentary terms. It is urged by those in charge of the exposition held here next week that the necessity of making a good showing next week is more pronounced than was the case then, inasmuch as the chief executive of the nation will next Monday get his first sight of the capital city.

TO BE BROUGHT TO HELENA FOR TRIAL

ALLEGED GANG OF COUNTERFEITERS RECENTLY ARRESTED IN WESTERN MONTANA.

Deputy Marshall J. H. Haigler left Helena yesterday for western Montana and Idaho where he will take into custody the alleged gang of counterfeiters arrested at Trout Creek. Three of the alleged counterfeiters are held at Trout Creek and one at Sand Point, Idaho. The gang will be brought to Helena to await the action of the next grand jury. When the raid was made upon the gang $500 in "phony" money and a complete counterfeiting outfit is said to have been found.

It is said the gang operated under the name of the Burnt Forest Copper & Silver Mining company, of which J. S. Lee, sr., was president. Crucibles,

REFERS CORPORATION TAX TO MEETING OF GOVERNORS

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 23.—Instead of going on record for or against the corporation tax law, in accordance with the desires of opposing factions, the International tax association today adopted resolutions referring the matter to a meeting of the governors of all the states, which the association asked Governor Willson of Kentucky to call.

Committees will be appointed to ascertain whether the failure of the general property tax is due to defects in the system or to weakness in its administration.
