

N. Y. STORE GIVES GRAND PRIZE FOR MOTOR STYLE SHOW; PARKER THE JUDGE

The grand prize for the Motor Style show de luxe, postponed from tonight to Saturday's night show at the fair grounds, will be given by the New York store, where exhibits of the prize ribbons in the show will be placed on display this morning.

In addition to the State Fair ribbons, claimed to be the most beautiful of all ribbons given, the New York store will present through the State Fair management a Beacon Indian blanket suitable for an auto robe.

The chief judge of the Style show will be Austin Parker of New York City, formerly of The Independent staff, and now a well known short story writer, featured by Collier's, who is in the city for a brief visit.

Evidence that the Style show will be one of the social events of the week is seen in the numbers of entries which have already come in. They include Mrs. E. M. Hall, Miss Lucia Stone, Mrs. John H. Young, Miss Jean Jacobson, Mrs. Lester Loble, Mrs. J. G. Thompson, Miss Margaret Walsh and Mrs. Hugh Thomas Carter.

All but Mrs. Thompson of those entered early will drive Studebakers. Mrs. Thompson will drive the Pierce-Arrow limousine which won the grand prize here in 1920, and also her Marmion open car, these being in different divisions.

In the closed car class C. Mrs. Hall will drive a Studebaker standard six 5-passenger duplex phaeton. In class D, Miss Stone will be at the wheel of a Studebaker special six 2-passenger roadster.

Under the new arrangement, the Style show awards will be made shortly after the judging, and the ribbons and grand prize will be given immediately after the judges reach their decision.

Financing and other details of Montana's co-operation with the Great Northern, Burlington and Northern Pacific railway systems, in a concentrated campaign of publicity for this state during the month of December, were discussed at a meeting of Commercial club secretaries and others here yesterday.

A poster suggested by Max Goodwill of the Northern Pacific railway was viewed at the meeting. It shows a picture of a Montana wheat field in shock and a farmer with a goose.

Those at the meeting were Frank Venable, Butte; W. G. Ferguson, Helena; L. E. Jones, Great Falls; E. L. Beard, Whitefish and John Whittney, Miles City, and P. P. Runkel, Billings, secretary of the Montana Development association; M. S. Carpenter, Missoula, of the Montana Sportsmen's association, and L. A. Campbell, director of publicity for the state department of agriculture.

Emil Kluge, old-time resident and well known Mason, died last night at 8 at his home on Water street. He had been in feeble health for more than three years after the close of his last term as justice of the peace.

Mr. Kluge was secretary of King Solomon Lodge No. 9, A. F. and A. M., for 32 years. His funeral will be under the auspices of this lodge. Arrangements will be completed and announced later.

Mr. Kluge was born 79 years ago in Germany. He came to the United States in 1873, locating in Helena, where he resided continuously since that time. His wife died in 1916. He is survived by one son, Emil, Jr., and the young daughter of his daughter who is now deceased. Her husband, R. R. Turner, is a resident here.

Helena Martin opened a series of talks here last night in the city auditorium. The program was delayed somewhat by a late train, but the audience remained.

Miss Martin will speak at the same place tonight on "Soundless Sounds." Her meetings on Saturday and Sunday evenings will be announced later. She is doing private healing work at 304 Broadway.

Lewis Penwell who, for many years, has been a close business and political associate of Senator T. J. Walsh, has proffered his services to the Walsh campaign committee and will have an active part in the direction of the senator's contest for re-election.

Mr. Penwell will spend such time as the demands of his private business affairs will permit in Helena and his friends feel that his large acquaintance throughout the state and intimate knowledge of political conditions will enable him to render particularly effective service in the effort to send Senator Walsh back to the senate by the largest majority ever given any candidate in the history of the state.

A meeting will be held tonight at the Placer for the purpose of perfecting a state organization of reserve corps officers. Col. George F. Weisel of Missoula is the temporary president, and Maj. C. E. Potts of Bozeman secretary.

Scheduled for next talks are: Col. Albert J. Gaken, Helena; Major H. D. Mudgett, Livingston; Major J. A. Foot, Helena; Col. D. G. Stivers, Butte, and Col. Charles L. Sheridan, Helena.

BURGLAR GETS WATCH AND MONEY AT HOME OF W. E. WILLIAMS

W. E. Williams, district agent of the Equitable Life Assurance society, reported yesterday to the police and county authorities that burglars had entered his home at 613 Jackson street Wednesday night, and made off with a Hamilton gold watch, engraved "W. E. W.," and a considerable sum of money which was taken from his vest pocket.

The burglary was after 11:30 p. m., according to Mr. Williams. The family slept on a porch, he said, and under these circumstances the burglar was able to "do his stuff" without awakening the household.

A check-up of articles taken by a burglar from the home of George P. Arnold, at 717 North Warren, the same night during the temporary absence of the family, revealed the loss of considerable jewelry in addition to clothing. It was said yesterday at the sheriff's office.

As both burglaries were in the same neighborhood they were committed probably by one and the same outfit, the authorities believe.

No clues were left at either place. The police and Sheriff Barnes are working on the different cases.

Can Win if We Put Pep Into Fight

try is to travel for four years, the vehicle for the journey, and the rate of the vehicle's travel, Mr. Davis continued through his speech to follow this figure with humorous touches that delighted his audience.

As in earlier addresses of the day, he said the choice was between the road of privilege "on which you will find taught the doctrine that government is the peculiar function of the rich, the well-born and the able," and the road of equality, with room on it for every American, high and low, rich and poor, to travel on equal terms.

Striking out at the tariff and the " Mellon plan" of tax reductions, he went on to say that those who travel the road of privilege, also believe in the primary duty of men in office to care for their friends.

"Those who travel the road of privilege, if they are put in charge of the veterans' bureau with the solemn duty to carry out the oath of the nation sworn at the tomb of the 'Unknown Soldier,' he said, 'cannot, to save their souls, keep their fingers out of the nation's pocket. The veterans of this country stand by shame-facely while the bounty which congress has provided for them goes to the enrichment of Charles R. Forbes and his associates.'

"Of the rate of travel," he said, "there is not much advantage in a straight and clear highway, if you simply go and sit down by the roadside and keep cool," and he declared that after 18 months of investigation, a report on the rate of sugar duty had laid for two months on the table of the president.

At Charleston, earlier in the day, Mr. Davis told the people of his native state that it would be his ambition, if elected president, to give the American people a government "honest from top to bottom," in which the laboring man, the farmer and consumer would all feel they were being treated on an equal basis.

There will be "no Falls, no Daughertys, no Forbes, no Gaston B. Means, no Jess Smiths or Manningtons" in the democratic administration, the nominee promised as he faced an assemblage on a vacant lot, where once had stood the state capital building in which he had served as a member of the legislature.

The political outlook in the western states, Mr. Davis declared, he found "very promising" on his recent tour, and added that he had every expectation of triumph in the November election. Going in to the agricultural situation in that section, Mr. Davis said he had learned while traveling about the middle west, that 50 percent of the farmers in 15 agricultural states have either lost their farms by foreclosure, have surrendered them to their creditors, or staying on simply because they are at the mercy of those whom they owe money.

Rotarians Hold Reunion at Hotel; Too Muddy at Fair

Rotarians over the state were the guests yesterday at the Helena club luncheon held at the Placer. It had been planned to have the event at the State Fair grounds, but for obvious reasons—snow and sleet and rain and mud—it simply could not be.

There was a large attendance. A short address by Alfred Atkinson, district governor, who stressed the worthwhileness of business as one of the fundamentals of Rotary; a few humorous remarks by Frank Venable, secretary of the Butte club, songs by the members and music by the Thayer orchestra and several special musical numbers comprised the program.

Among the latter was a duet by Paul and Claire Flint; solo by Paul Flint; solo by Rotarian Bell of Anaconda, accompanied by Mrs. Bell, winding up with a duet, "The Argentinies and the Greeks," by Fred Kelsor and Bill Ferguson.

Following the luncheon, Sam Treloar's famous Butte Mines band played the "Rotary March," which made a distinct hit, both with the Rotarians and the big crowd which jammed the hotel lobby.

"TEN COMMANDMENTS" ONE OF GREATEST PICTURES

Those who attended the first showing in Helena of "The Ten Commandments" which opened a three days' engagement, matinees and evenings, yesterday at The Marlow will tell you that it was one of the greatest pictures thus far produced. It is in a class, although not at all like it, with "The Covered Wagon" which made so profound an impression here and which is soon to be seen in Helena again.

The production is by Cecil B. De Mille, a famous director whose work is well known, among all filmdom. The story based on "The Ten Commandments" is by Jeanie Macpherson, a scenario writer who is considered among the very best.

The biblical story deals with the bondage in Egypt of the Children of Israel, captives of the Pharoahs and when Moses, their leader, begs for liberation, he is lashed from the temple. Then follows the plagues which takes the first born of every family, including the son of Ramees. Then the pursuit of the Children of Israel who are lead to the Red Sea, which opens to permit their escape from the charioteers of the Egyptian army, halted by a pillar of fire. The pillar of fire purguit and the sea closes over them. The exaltation of the prophet soon passes and during his absence on the Mount when he is given the Ten Commandments on tablets of stone, his people build and worship the golden calf. Moses descends from the mountains and crashes the tables into the scene of idolatry. The golden calf is reduced to dust by the bolts from heaven. Follows then the modern story of the worship by a young couple of the golden calf. Climaxes of thrilling power are reached and in the end, the Eternal Law is vindicated.

The above, in brief, is the story of the play, but it is almost impossible to describe the wonder scenes of the age of the Pharoahs. No more thrilling act has ever been staged either on the stage or in the films than the charioteers' race after the children of Israel, the parting of the Dead Sea and the destruction of the pursuing hosts. The scene on the Mount is equally thrilling. Much of the first part is in color photography.

The modern story following reveals the punishment visited upon those who defy the Commandments. Much effect is lent by the special music played by an orchestra of 20 members.

The cast is great. Thousands of extras, including Canadian soldiers as charioteers, are used. The principal players are: Theodore Roberts, Charles de Roche, Estelle Taylor, Julia Kaye, James Neill, Clarence Burton, Edythe Chapman, Richard Dix, Leatrice Joy, Nita Naldi, Robert Edeson, Charles Ogle and Agnes Ayres.

If you would see one of the greatest pictures which has ever visited Helena, don't fail to see "The Ten Commandments."

ROOM PROWLERS ARE CONNECTED UP WITH LARCENY AT HAVRE

C. M. Toohy and H. Davenport, arrested early Wednesday morning by Sergeant Fred Gebhardt and Patrolman Earl Brown for room prowling at the Harvey hotel, have been connected-up with the theft of Great Northern pay-checks at Havre, according to report last night, following the arrival here of a railroad special agent from Havre and conferences with Sheriff Jim Barnes and Chief of Police Joe Spurzem.

The sheriff of Hill county has been notified of the circumstances, and will come to Helena to take the men back to Havre for trial, it was said.

One of the checks was found among effects of the men, it was said.

CLOSING SCHEDULE AT STORES UPSET BY RAIN

The "regular State Fair brand of weather" yesterday timed itself to upset about every well-laid plan there was that was hooked up with the fair. Not only did it send the fair program to the mat for a full count, but the closing schedule at the stores was also completely upset. The grocery stores and meat markets were closed, but the department and shoe stores continued open.

Today, according to R. L. Varney, secretary of the Retail Merchants exchange, the department and shoe stores will close at noon for the remainder of the day. The grocery stores and markets will be open all day, but employees will be privileged to "take time out" this afternoon if they desire to attend the fair.

Snow fell here early yesterday morning, followed by rain which continued through the day.

BLANKET FLIM-FLAM ON BOYS AT THE FAIR RESULTS IN KICKBACK

A couple of boys from Great Falls, who came to the State fair with the delegation from the Cascade county boys' club, ran up against a flim-flam game at one of the "blanket" concessions at the State fair yesterday morning, according to a story they told to Deputy County Attorney George W. Padbury, Jr. They got their money back last night, after Sheriff Jim Barnes called on the carnival management with a John Doe warrant issued out of a local justice of the peace court.

Get Their Money Back. When the sheriff, accompanied by the boys, arrived at the blanket stand they found it closed, presumably on account of the bad weather. The sheriff then called on one of the carnival horses. When the circumstances were explained and the warrant shown, the carnival man paid over the money the boys had lost in trying to win a cheap blanket.

They Took a Chance. The boys said they had lost $7.50 and $2.50 respectively in bucking the blanket game. When asked if they had not read in Thursday's Independent that all persons under 18 years were prohibited from playing any of the "games" at the fair grounds—the boys are 16 years of age—they admitted they had, but as they were anxious to win a couple of blankets, and the man running the game was willing for them to "try," they had taken a chance.

A Liberal "Guarantee." According to the boys' story, the blanket man told them that he guaranteed their money back, and that they would win blankets too.

HARRY ARCHER WITH "LITTLE JESSE JAMES"

"Little Jesse James" which ran for a whole year on Broadway and which was written by Harlan Thompson and Harry Archer and produced by L. Lawrence Weber, is to be the attraction at the Marlow Monday evening.

While "Little Jesse James" is described as a musical comedy, the term scarcely fits it since it is so different from the usual run of entertainments that goes by that appellation. The story is frankly farcical and the music of the synopacted variety. One of the features is a Paul Whittman band which displaces the regular orchestra and plays the score from the pit. The demon musicians are called the James Boys and are said to fully live up to the reputation made by the famous outlaws.

Romance of Timber in New Screen Story. There is a romance in the industry of timber cutting which defies analysis. Thrills, danger and adventures are crowded into the working days of a great lumber crew, and yet in time even this must get monotonous. "Big Timber" is the offering of the Antlers today and is a story of chump and interest for all classes of fans. One feature which is highly advertised is the pictorial beauty of the settings, recorded by Jackson Rose's camera.
